Students seeking admission to the Department of Art and Art History for studio art programs (not Art History) must first be admitted to UNC Charlotte and then must submit a portfolio in early spring and be accepted into the art major before beginning any studio art courses. Yearly portfolio application deadlines will be listed on Undergraduate Admissions and Department of Art and Art History webpages (<http://coaa.uncc.edu/academics/department-of-art-art-history/admissions>).

All students initially begin pursuing the BA in Art; students interested in the BFA in Art will take specific concentration related coursework after being admitted to the BA in Art and then apply with a second portfolio to the BFA degree. Students interested in pursuing a BFA in Art should note that attaining an Associate’s Degree will not expedite time to degree because of pre-requisite and sequencing requirements in the studio courses for BFA concentrations. BFA concentrations take 6-8 semesters to complete from time of entry in the major depending on the concentration chosen.
